Poppin' Bottles

Expert sommelier and Taittinger Champagne ambassador Chantelle Corbo gives us the skinny on this timeless celebratory sip.

KNOW THE LINGO

Most champagnes are brut, which refers to their sweetness. The average champagne usually has 6 to 10 grams of sugar per liter, which adds body and complements the acidity.

FIND A FAVE

Be adventurous and taste your way to a favorite style. A blanc de blancs is made with 100 percent chardonnay, while rosé champagne is usually a blend of red pinot noir with chardonnay.

Both are versatile—a bottle of champagne can pair with an entire meal.

SHOP SMART

If you're on a budget, opt for a non-vintage style, which will start around $50. If you want to age a bottle, go for a high-quality blanc de blancs.
